Artemus Ward.

Artemus Ward's new talk on Mormons is very funny. Here are some of the hits:

Brigham Young has eighty wives, besides those which are only "sealed," and yet

He loves not wisely,
And too (hundred) well.

The Vice President has 2000 head of cattle and 200 head of wives. They have an awful appetite. I once thoughtlessly gave a family ticket to an elder to attend my lecture. He came and filled the whole house. 'Twas a success that night, but I didn't get any money.

The seventeen wives of a deceased elder tried to make me a Mormon and marry them. They wept; they hove a sigh—seventeen sighs—a sigh of considerable size. They put their soft white hand in mine—seventeen hands surrounding me. There I was, alone, away from my parents! I exclaimed: "I hope you have no dishonorable intentions!" As I took myself away, they said in their grief: "It is too much!" That was just the thing that confused me in their request—and I said: "It is too much!"

When captured by the Indians, I saw descending on me the glistening thomas-hawk in the morning light. I had no reinforcements—no pontoon—no last ditch with me, and I had no female attire; so sez I boldly: "I surrender!" I was allowed to march out with my side arms and green cotton umbrella, which my aunt at Saccarap had given me. I didn't feel afraid—not I—for I had exposed my life before. I once stood at Centreville and saw thousands of bullets—those leaden messengers of death! Thousands of them passing close to me—packed in wagons.

A VERY good story is told of Pat Casey, whom all the old miners about Gregory in 1857 knew. Pat—as the name indicates—was a native of that country from whence its patron saint banished all the ophidians; and soon after propitious fortune had smiled upon him in his discoveries among the peaks of Clear Creek, he started a one-horse brokers establishment in Central. Being accosted with the usual sobriquet one morning from an "old bog," who was also a son of Erin, "Top o' the morning to yez Pat!" he could not appreciate that title in his elevated position, for Pat was rich now and as the slang phrase goes "couldn't see it" therefore his reply was, "Pat de ye say sir? Pat is it now? me name is P. D. Casey Esquare, sir, and its meself that's got an office in Central and me office hours are from P. M. in the forenoon to A. M. in the afternoon, sir, and if ye'd be after wantin' anything, call on me clarks, sir, d'ye mind that now!"—Denver Daily.

PAUPERISM IN ENGLAND AND AMERICA.—Nothing shows more forcibly the wide difference between the laboring class in Great Britain and the United States than a comparison of the pauperism of the two countries. The number of persons in England and Wales who receive relief from the poor rates is about one out of every 20 inhabitants, while in the United States there is but one pauper out of every 450. The ease with which employment and good wages can be obtained in this country is certainly one great cause of this vast difference; but it may also be traced in a considerable degree to the superior education of our working classes, and to that spirit of independence and determination to make their way in the world which naturally prevails among a population who consider it disgraceful to become a burden to the community.

THE QUEEN'S GOOD MANNERS.—A peer, when dining with Queen Victoria, was challenged by a royal duchess to take wine with her. He politely thanked her, but declined the compliment, stating that he never took wine. The duchess immediately turned to the Queen, and jocularly said: "Please your Majesty, here is Lord ——, who declines to take wine at your Majesty's table." Every eye was turned to the Queen, and not a little curiosity was evinced as to the manner in which the abstainer would be dealt with. With a smiling and graceful expression, the Queen replied: "There is no compulsion at my table." The story is communicated to a newspaper by one of the guests.

ALL FOR LOVE.—A Spanish-American, who, some months since, left a countrywoman with whom he had been living, on account of her having another lover, met her on Tuesday evening and was invited to enter her house and take a glass of wine. He complied, and soon felt excruciating pains, which induced him to call on Dr. Prevost, who found that he had been poisoned with strychnine. The doctor saved his life by using a stomach pump, and detective officer Blitz is now in search of the would-be murderess, having been detailed for that purpose by Chief Crowley.—Alta, February 14th.

THE greatest cave in the world is in Kentucky; the greatest river and the largest valley in the world are the Mississippi river and valley; the largest inland sea of the world is Lake Superior; the greatest mass of solid iron is the iron mountain of Missouri; the Falls of Niagara is the greatest cataract in the world; Chicago is the largest grain market port and lumber market; New York has the largest aqueduct in the world, while Pennsylvania contains the largest deposits of anthracite, and Illinois the greatest extent of bituminous coal fields in the known world.—Mining Journal.

DAN RICE remitted, in settlement of an account with a newspaper out west, a three dollar bill, which was returned indorsed, "This note is counterfeit; please send another." It was two months before Dan replied, when he apologized for the delay, saying he had been unable "until now to get another counterfeit three dollar bill," but he hoped the one he now inclosed would suit, professing at the same time his inability to discover what the objection was to the other, which he thought as good a counterfeit as he ever saw.

A TRACT upon "Hell" by Rev. J. Furniss, a Catholic priest of London, gives more definite information than has hitherto been obtained on the subject. Mr. F. states, among other items, that hell is 4,000 miles from the surface of the earth; it is a boundless plain of red hot iron, with an atmosphere of fire and rivers of seething filth and sulphur. The book is specially intended "for children and young people, who are often lost for want of being early smitten by terror."

THE ice bridge at Quebec is composed of a series of huge masses of ice and snow, firmly welded together by the frost king, and kept in position by the immensely strong "key" which extends across the lower part of the harbor.

Rumors.

For the last day or two the town has been all agog, in consequence of rumors prevalent on the street. The many-tongued dame was positive in asseverating that a telegram had been received conveying the pleasing intelligence that a bill had passed Congress permitting the Union Pacific Railroad Company to commence building the Road both east and west from Great Salt Lake City. One of the Madam's tongues granted the privilege mentioned to the Central Pacific Company of California; while still another whispered that it was divided between the two Companies—the Union Pacific to build eastwardly from this city, and the Central Pacific to construct westwardly.

We have before explained to our readers that the Act granting subsidies in money and lands to these Companies respectively, restricts them from commencing work (beyond surveys) at a greater distance than three hundred miles from the terminus of the road actually constructed. For instance, the present terminus of the Union Pacific is at or near the forks of the Platte. The Company, if it wish to secure the subsidy, must build the road in a continuous line westward. If it should locate its route to Salt Lake, and commence the construction at this city eastward to meet the road progressing westward, it would be compelled to rely on its own resources, without receiving the aid of the Government, until the western part of the road should approach within three hundred miles of the eastern portion. Just so the eastern terminus of the Central Pacific is at Cisco, just west of the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. If this Company should, under the existing law, leap the distance from Cisco to Salt Lake, and commence building from this city westward, they would not receive any assistance from the Government for the eastern section of their line so built. As this work is of so great magnitude as absolutely to require the Government aid authorized, there is very little prospect that either Company will commence at this end of its route, unless the restriction mentioned be removed by Act of Congress.

It is well understood that an effort to this effect has been made, at least by the Union Pacific, a Company with ample means to prosecute the work. The rumor mentioned as prevalent in our city for the past two days refers to this application, and is not in itself improbable. Knowing the interest of our citizens in this matter, we have sought to trace the rumor to its source, but have not succeeded. It is greatly to be hoped, however, that it has some more substantial and satisfactory an origin than that wish which is said to be "parent of the thought." Our people are all interested in it most deeply. To the commercial man it gives assurance of better times in the near future. And surely just now, and for some months past, the "times" have been unprecedentedly dull. In fact, in mercantile parlance, the "bottom has verily fallen out" of Salt Lake trade. Never has there been such dearth of money, or so little business transacted. In fact, the "Bears" have been decidedly in the ascendant.

To the Mormon, wrapped up as he is in his faith and his predilection for isolation, it is a grateful thought that if civilization and railroads must come to break in on the monotony of his every-day life and, it may be, on some of the peculiar practices of his creed, they will bring temporal prosperity, open markets for his grain and other produce, scatter money among the people, and advance the temporal (even if in his view it may not the spiritual,) welfare of the community. To the Reformer, that terrible genus ycleped Regenerator, the Railroad brings hope that it will bear on its iron horse enlightenment, commerce, contact with the world, and by peaceful means, some day if not soon, overcome the errors of Mormonism. So that all classes of our people are on their "high horse" at the rumor referred to.

We are not sure just how much the price of real estate has increased in consequence of it, nor what per cent. has been added thereby to the rate of prints, groceries, and things generally. But the "Bulls" have felt their oats considerably, and if the rumor could be traced to a reliable source they would be jubilant. All feel that no Church "counsel" or dictation can stop the iron horse, and when his fiery snort shall be heard resounding through Echo Canon and across the Wasatch, it will be the harbinger of peace, plenty, prosperity, and all the other alliterated "p"s, except poverty and polygamy.

Verily, we need something of this sort to give us a little new life. It seems to be the prevailing opinion of the press elsewhere that Utah is rapidly filling up with an energetic Gentile population, on whom they rely greatly to settle what is termed the "Mormon question" in a short time. Never was there a greater mistake. Outside of this city and Stockton there are not to exceed fifty permanent residents of the class called Gentiles. Even in this city the Gentile population is decreasing rather than augmenting. For reasons well understood here, and which should be known abroad by this time, many of our residents have left the Territory, and many more propose doing so in the Spring. The Railroad will change all this, to a great extent, and it is to be hoped that Congress will, if it have not already done so, authorize the commencement of its construction at this central point.

Democratic Candidates for Governor.—The most prominent names we have heard spoken of in this connection are William T. Coleman, Eugene Casserly, John S. Hagar and Joseph P. Hoge.—Sacramento Union.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE "DAILY UNION VEDETTE."]

New York, February 26.

The Tribune's special says the Judiciary Committee's investigation in regard to the return of confiscated property to the Southern people, shows that in Louisiana alone property valued at $50,000,000 has been returned to rebels by order of President Johnson. [illegible] [illegible] this property belonged [illegible] the Government [illegible] much as any could.

Toronto, February 25.

An advance copy of the Confederation bill has been received here. The name of the united Provinces is to be the Kingdom of Canada. The Federal Legislature is styled the Parliament of Canada, with a Senate and a House of Commons. The Senate's Speaker will be appointed by the Crown, and will have power to create six additional Senators beyond the stipulated seventy-two, in event of necessity. The House of Commons is to consist of 181 members: 82 from Ontario, 65 from Quebec, 19 from Nova Scotia, and 15 from New Brunswick. The Queen's representative presiding over the new Kingdom retains the title of Governor General; salary, $50,000. Each Province will have a Lieutenant Governor, appointed by the Governor General and Council. The seat of Government to be at Ottawa, subject to the Royal prerogative. Toronto, Quebec, Halifax, and Fredericktom are to be the seats of local Legislatures.

New York, February 26.

The Herald's correspondence says the Bay of Samana has been secured by Mr. Somers Smith, Charge d'Affaires of the United States to San Domingo, as a coaling station for U. S. vessels, and that a treaty had already been forwarded to Washington.

The Herald's British Honduras correspondence, of Feb. 3d, says that another expedition had started after Indians, under Colonel Hasly of the British army.

The Times' special says that Cooper of Tennessee, of the select committee to inquire as to the murder of Union soldiers in South Carolina, submitted a minority report, in which he admits that the soldiers were unquestionably deliberately murdered, but claims that it is not proved beyond reasonable doubt that the soldiers were not guilty of crime. He then proceeds at length to sustain the official act which culminated in the release of the murderers by habeas corpus. He also disagrees with the Committee as to the necessity for military rule in the South to maintain order.

The Tribune's special says that General Grant has expressed himself to Senator Wilson and the Secretary of War as warmly in favor of the Military Government bill.

The World's special says the President has tendered the Austrian Mission to Postmaster General Randall, as the Senate will not confirm Cowan's nomination.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE.]

London, February 25.

In accordance with the programme announced by Government on the 11th inst., resolutions on Reform were introduced in the House of Commons this evening. Disraeli opened the debate, and on the part of Government proposed four new franchises, and the change of some borough seats. Mr. John Bright followed, and made a strong speech in opposition to the scheme of the Derby Administration.

A dispatch from Tsin-China reports that the Tycoon had been shot.

A Californian in Chile.—J. L. Wetmore, an old resident of Oakland, returned from Chile by the last steamer from Panama. The Oakland News says of him: "This gentleman, while in Santiago, Chile, had the honor of establishing the first Protestant church ever there. The Congress of that country had, after many attempts, succeeded in obtaining the signature of the President of a bill granting foreigners the same religious rights in Santiago which are granted in Valparaiso. Thus Protestant Christians are permitted to furnish houses for public worship, provided the exterior of their buildings do not resemble the Roman Catholic churches. No spire can be built in connection with them. As soon as permission was granted, Mr. Wetmore, at his own expense and under his own supervision, had a commodious building tastefully fitted up for Divine worship, and dedicated before a congregation of the most influential men in the country by a Protestant minister from Valparaiso. The church has now a regular attendance of about forty members. The service is conducted on the Union principle."—Alta, Feb. 16th.

An Editor's Opinion.—Reynolds, of the Idaho Statesman, thus speaks of O'Meara, of the World:

We owe an apology to those of our readers who have long been acquainted with him for referring to or noticing O'Meara or his barefaced lying. He is known in Oregon to be so utterly and recklessly untruthful that one would only be laughed at for his pains in ever noticing him in a serious manner. But Dennis is comparatively a stranger in Idaho to many people, and if he be not ventilated there may be some found who might some time believe something he says; surely no one will who knows him. For this reason we ask the indulgence of some while we expose the scamp to others. He has of late made several of his characteristic attacks upon Judge Cummins, in no instance, we believe, with even the semblance of truth.

These Idaho editors talk very plain.

A Timely Reprieve.—During the recent visit of the King of Saxony to Berlin the following touching incident occurred: As the King was returning from mass, in St. Hedwig's church, a woman, with a child in her arms, fell on her knees before him, and with tears implored the King to pardon her husband, who had been sentenced to death for the murder of his brother, and was to forfeit his life that very day at Dresden. The old King, who is much beloved, and has always shown himself disposed leniently toward them, graciously told her to come to the castle, and there she obtained the promise that the execution should be stopped, for which the King gave immediate orders by telegraph. The reprieve arrived just in time to save the life of the culprit, whose head was actually on the block.

San Francisco Leader.—One of the proprietors of the Leader visited this place the past winter soliciting subscribers to his paper, since which time they suspended the publication of the same, and transferred their subscription books to the Weekly Alta California. That paper will be furnished to all those who have paid in advance for the Leader.—Idaho Statesman.

The Omaha Republican is reliably informed that Captain Frank North, of Columbia, has been authorized by the authorities at Washington to raise a battalion of Pawnee braves for service on the plains against the hostile Indians.

Last Letter of N. P. Willis.

The following characteristic and touching letter is published in the last number of the Home Journal:

Sick Room, Idlewild, Dec. 4, 1866.

Dear Phillips:—The promptness and efficiency and devotion with which you came to my side, on the doctor's [illegible] a dying man, at my city [illegible] [illegible]! You got [illegible] beautiful Sunday, [illegible] [illegible] could [illegible] [illegible] suffering [illegible] my [illegible] has gradually crept from my legs upward to my lungs, and I am unable to sit erect without fainting. I am still very much as usual in the brain.

With a fearful storm raging in the Highlands about me, I am thinking how you are "making up" without me at the office, and wishing I were a "wee" bit nearer to you.

My friendship with you, which I cherish so pleasantly, stands a chance to be the last fully intellectual act of my life; yet it is by no means a novelty. When I found dear old Morris loving you, and making you his private secretary and literary assistant, ten years ago, I adopted you as a creature to be loved, and I have found you to be a man singularly modest, and curiously unappreciative of many good qualities in yourself. I think, for an editor, your capacities are excellent. There is no better appreciator of a good thing, moral and intellectual, sarcastic or witty; but, as a business friend and partner, you are invaluable.

I am gratified to have lived long enough to get you fairly into harness, as a well-developed partner and co-worker. I could have wished for more—but, alas! for this fragmentary life, it is hard to be taken soon enough; it is hard to be left long enough.

I am writing this, half-dead and half-alive, by the hand of my attentive and sweet wife, and it is not to be published while I live. But you will be at liberty to refer to it and print it, post mortem.

God bless you, my dear friend.

Yours faithfully, thus far,

N. P. Willis.

A Singular Case of Bigamy.—We clip the following from the San Francisco Call, of February 15th:

About three years ago, a couple of young people met in Australia, and, conceiving a fondness for each other, were shortly afterward married in a clandestine manner—nobody being present except the minister who performed the ceremony. The lady was the possessor of one hundred thousand dollars in her own right, while the gentleman was impecunious. After a short honeymoon the matrimonial heavens became clouded, and flashes of lightning and peals of thunder became frequent in their domestic circle. Finally they agreed to separate, and the wife furnished the husband with funds to reach California and maintain himself in a decent manner for some time. After the arrival of the husband in this city, he became acquainted with a young Englishman, to whom he took a great fancy. This new acquaintance was also impecunious, and the fugitive husband having considerable funds which had been furnished him by his wife, he took the poor friend under his protection and gave him the liberty of his rooms, paid his board, and monopolized his society. After a while the two men began the study of medicine, and matriculated at the Toland Medical College. A year passed away, and the wife arrived from Australia, having grown tired of the separation. After her arrival a reconciliation was effected, and the parties began housekeeping, and the friend took quarters with them. The friend was a handsome man, and a fellow of wit and social qualities. He liked the wife, and soon sought every opportunity to be in her company—the husband, on the contrary, remaining very little at home. The friend finally abandoned the study of medicine, and began studying law with a law firm in this city. He was industrious, reading early and late, and holding long consultations with the wife. Finally, the thing culminated in the wife and the law student calling on Mr. Loewy, getting a marriage license, and going before a preacher and having the marriage ceremony performed. He had been reading law for the purpose of learning whether the woman could be prosecuted for bigamy if he married her. The Australian husband, when he learned what had taken place, was greatly excited, and vowed his determination to bring the guilty woman to justice; but his threats were laughed at, and the probabilities are that no attempt will be made to bring the guilty parties to punishment.

Wonderful Tenacity of Life.—A remarkable instance of the preservation of life without sustenance for a lengthened period has lately occurred at Ponikau, near Grossenhayn, in Saxony. On the 8th of December last two brothers named Muschter were engaged in a well, when the earth fell in and completely buried them. A third brother went down immediately, but was not able to perceive the slightest sound. Some miners were then set to work, and dug for some days, but without success; and it was so generally thought that the poor fellows could not possible be alive that orders had been given, that unless the relatives insisted on proceeding further, the well should be filled up, and a monument to the memory of the Muschters erected over it. Eight days had already elapsed since the accident, but the mother of the entombed would not give up all hope, and some fresh hands began to work again, though only in the expectation of finding the corpses. To their astonishment, however, they suddenly heard from below the words, "Do not strike so hard." A conversation commenced, the work was pushed forward with renewed diligence, and at length crowned with success.

On the 19th of December, after they had been 11 days and 4 hours in this living grave, the two Muschters were rescued and brought to the surface. The earth that had fallen in had left a kind of cave above them. Their only sustenance during this long period had been the water that had oozed through the earth, and a little tobacco which they had chewed. They had a watch with them which they had wound up regularly, and were therefore able to keep account of the time of their burial. At first they lighted lucifer matches to see the time, but when these were all used they felt the hands. They had heard the conversation above them respecting the filling up the well, and shouted, but could not make themselves heard. They had also sung hymns together, and the people at the surface had heard it faintly, but being not a little superstitious had attributed it to angels in the air.

Very Old Copperheads.—Old Hebrew coins, struck at Jerusalem during the governorship of Pontius Pilate, in the sixteenth year of the reign of Tiberius, or the years 29 of the Christian Era, have been found on the sloping side of Mount Moriah, over the valley of Jehosaphat. These coins are of copper, and bear the legend "of Tiberius Cæsar, year 16," and on the reverse, "Julia, mother of Cæsar." These coins, which are of copper, and of the size of an American dime, were, of course, handled by men who saw the fate of Christ. The editor of the New York Journal of Commerce has one of these unique pieces in his possession, which he found himself. This identical coin may have touched the hand of Peter, or been in the bag of Judas, or bought food for the disciples of their Master.—Exchange.

East Tennessee has a tombstone whereon is inscribed the following epitaph: "She lived a life of virtue, and died of the cholera morbus, caused by eating green fruit, in the full hope of a blessed immortality, at the early age of twenty-four. Reader, go thou and do likewise."

At noon yesterday, the Chinese laborers resumed work on Townsend street, South Beach, under the protection of a strong police force, but no demonstration of any kind were made against them. It was rumored that the rioters had announced their determination to prevent the Chinese working at all hazards, and that they had effected an organization numbering one thousand men or more to accomplish their purpose. Chief Crowley, with some fifty policemen, about half of whom were armed with Minnie muskets, were on hand ready to quell any disturbance that might occur, and arrangements have been made for sufficient reinforcements that may be necessary to put down any riot. The hillsides and shores in the vicinity were covered with men yesterday afternoon, but they all appeared to have been drawn thither through motives of curiosity to see what was going on. The rumors of a probable resumption of hostilities drew hundreds to the scene who desired to witness the expected encounter. The people are orderly and quiet, and after remaining awhile, watching the Chinamen at their labors, they stroll away. No trouble was expected yesterday, although it is feared that the rioters may only be waiting the departure of the police to resume their attacks on the Chinese.

The trial of numerous wine cases, involving 1,500 cases of white and red wines, valued at $100,000, is proceeding in the United States Circuit Court. The suits are brought for a confiscation of these wines, which were seized during the administration of Colonel James, as Collector of this port. The Government claims that the wines are of a superior quality, but were invoiced in 1863 at a cost not above the price of bottling. It is claimed also that the wines were invoiced under an unknown brand. A number of suits have consolidated into one, and when the whole shall have been tried, it will close the wine cases growing out of the seizures made during 1863.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Fenians was held Sunday afternoon, at Minerva Hall, for the purpose of devising means to aid their countrymen in Ireland, who are in arms for her independence. All were thoroughly impressed with the necessity of sending material aid immediately. It was emphatically a war meeting, there being no speeches nor attempts at oratory of any kind made. We understand that it is the intention of the Brotherhood to call a mass meeting at an early day, of all who sympathize with their countrymen in their efforts to assert their independence.

A letter from San Diego, of February 13th, says: On the 1st ultimo we had a severe earthquake here. There were three distinct shocks. From Fort Yuma we have a report that four men, two of them soldiers of the Second Artillery, were hung by the Vigilance Committee of that place last week. No further particulars have as yet been received. Other news from there and from Arizona is favorable. Business is said to be good at the Fort, and there is a fine stage of water in the river for the steamboat trade, which the miners are turning to good account.

The steamer Oriflamme, with her party of excursionists, sailed for Mexico day before yesterday. Salutes were fired from many of the steamers in the harbor. The excursion steamer was gaily decorated with flags, and her passengers departed in good spirits with high hopes of a pleasant and successful trip. The Western Union Telegraph Company's steamer, Anson Stager, accompanied the Oriflamme to the Heads, and attracted considerable attention from her lilliputian appearance.

The steamer which sailed for Panama yesterday morning carried the bulk of 10,130½ barrels of flour in transit to New York, valued at $60,626.

Whiting, who returned here some months ago from Washoe, intending to go to Mexico, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a pistol while lying in bed this morning. He had formerly made considerable money and lost it, and was recently looking for a situation in a store. He left a letter to a friend stating his determination to take his life.

The indictment against D. O. McCarthy, of the defunct Flag, for libel on James Nisbet, was dismissed, on account of the death of the complaining witness, to-day, in the County Court; but the defendant's motion for a dismissal of the indictment for libel on W. C. Ralston of the Bank of California was denied.

A large meeting of workingmen is now being held at the Minerva Hall for the purpose of organizing against Chinese labor. Strong anti-coolie speeches have been made, and resolutions adopted against patronizing any merchant, manufacturer, capitalist or official man who employs Chinamen.

The Sacramento Bee learns from a gentleman who recently arrived from Auburn, that a serious accident happened to lawyer Hale of that place, while out hunting. He was shot in the eye, but our informant did not know whether it was Hale's own weapon that was discharged or that of some would-be assassin. Hale is State Senator from Placer, and was at one time Judge of that county. His spectacles, to some extent, served as a protection.

[illegible] 16th instant, says:

Mr. J. Hartman, of El Dorado Canyon, A. T., writes to a friend in this city that the Indians are all quiet on the Upper Colorado river. Destitute miners from Idaho and Montana are pouring into Arizona. A small lot of placer gold was brought into the Canyon lately, which was obtained a few miles above, but there was no excitement about it.

The famous and well known mail rider, Jim Ferry, brings the Salt Lake and Eastern mails into the Canyon from five to eight hours ahead of schedule time. The Indians never have molested him, and, in fact, never have molested any riders between Salt Lake and the Colorado river.

Company D, of the Ninth United States Infantry, are building a fine fort at the mouth of the Canyon. One white woman has arrived in the mines.

A Dispatch dated Marysville, California, February 18, says: David Doty, a driver and part owner of the stage line between this city and Nevada, committed suicide at 10 o'clock this morning by shooting himself through the right temple with a derringer pistol. Death ensued immediately. Deceased was a native of Ohio, a single man, about 52 years of age. He came to this country at an early day, and has been engaged in driving stage out of this city since 1852, and was a great favorite with the traveling public. Depression of spirits in consequence of losses in business is said to have led to the commission of the rash act.

The Size of Cisterns.—A cistern 5 feet in diameter will hold a fraction over 5 barrels for each foot in depth; 6 feet, a fraction over 6 barrels per foot; 7 feet, 9 barrels per foot; 8 feet, 11 barrels per foot; 9 feet, 15 barrels per foot; 10 feet, 18 barrels per foot. The last named figure is quite large for a family cistern, and 10 feet in depth is as much as we often find; the contents of such a one, according to our estimate, would be 10x18—180 barrels, and yet how many of us have had to pay for "three hundred barrel" cisterns of smaller size.

What a Whale Can Do.—During a recent cruise of the U. S. steamer Mohican, on the coast of Brazil, the back of a large fish was seen in the sea, a short distance from the vessel. Shortly afterwards the engines were suddenly stopped, and all the steam that could be put on would not force them ahead. Upon making examination it was found that the big fish, which proved to be a whale, was jammed between the propeller and the frame. The whale had, for the time, overcome steam power.

A celebrated wholesale merchant in London, England, has presented the proprietors of the newspaper called the Telegraph with a printing press which cost $25,000, as a token of appreciation. In doing so he accompanied the gift by a letter, which said: "In your paper, by judicious advertising, I first built the foundation of a fortune—and in your paper, by judicious advertising, I have amassed the fortune which enables me to offer this testimony of regard and good will."

Brevity.—The following model of testamentary conciseness, is the will of the late Mr. Sergeant Storks, of London: "I leave to my son Robert Reeve Storks, all my personal property, absolutely, which is not specially bequethed. To Kearns, £50 a year, Sir Henry and Mary are provided for. Tom, I omit, as he possesses a fortune. Dated October 12, 1859." This brief document disposes of £600,000—say $15,000 per word.

The Oldest Newspaper.—The Gazette de France is the oldest newspaper extant. It is now in its two hundred and thirty-sixth year.
